Cary Audio - Built in the USA

When I started getting seriously into high end audio back in the early 90's one of the first brands I got hooked on was Cary Audio. I loved the all tube designs and the fact that they were all made here in the USA. I especially loved that the head honcho at the time, Dennis Had was accessible to those who bought Cary products.

Dennis had a knack for creating some of the most beautiful tube designs of my time and I have owned quite a few of them. I even bought a pair of speakers Dennis made, a one off. They were a project build of sorts and were pretty cool. I have always gotten pleasure from the Cary gear I owned.

Today Dennis is retired but still enjoys making one off tube amps and preamps. He offers them on occasion. Cary Audio is run by Billy Wright these days, who worked with Dennis side by side for years and is also a part of the Cary Audio success story.
